5.6 MILLION AMERICANS BETWEEN 16 AND 24
ARE OUT OF SCHOOL AND NOT WORKING.

“ I believe in the talent that lies within our young people, and I know that when we give them a real chance, they will achieve and soar. ”

– COMMON

These young, motivated workers are a vital and untapped resource looking to fill millions of open roles. However, young people are often unaware that these opportunities are available, don't know the steps they need to take to pursue these jobs, and routinely face systemic barriers. At the same time, many employers do not have clear strategies to effectively recruit, train, and retain young workers.

Together with the Aspen Forum for Community Solutions and leading foundations, more than 35 leading, U.S.-based companies have formed the 100,000 Opportunities Initiative, an employer-led coalition committed to creating pathways to meaningful employment for America's young people.

Together, these companies, community based organizations, innovators, and foundations will convene regional alliances of public and non-profit service providers to create pathways to opportunity, build a multi-million dollar fund and leverage innovative programming and partners to create best in class pathway strategies, and develop tools and systems that can be scaled nationally and beyond.

Our efforts will focus in three to five key cities, partnering deeply with the local community to test programs for collective impact. The Initiative launched in Chicago, and was then followed in Phoenix, and we will now bring this momentum to Los Angeles, demonstrating the power of the coalition to make an immediate impact in the lives of young people.
